IMAGE IN MIRROR, EXPERT SAYS, DROVE WOOD TO MURDER

Formed in His Mind "Henry Wolf," the Living Criminal Side of His Dual Nature, Which Led Him to Kill Grocer Williams.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., May 17.—His own image seen in a mirror created the diseased mind of eGorge H. Wood the hallucination of "Henry Wolf," the criminal side of his own Jekyl-Hyde personality. This "Henry Wolf" figment of his imagination was to Wood a real living being a double in appearance of himself. It was Wolf who placed him in charge of the little black man, another of his hallucinations during the week when Grocer Wiliams was killed, and it is "Wolf" that is responsible for that crime.

This is the expert explanation of the strange case now on trial here and was given on the stand to-day by Dr. George M. Parker, of New York, one of the experts for the defense,

York, one of the experts for the defense.

Wood's own story, told on the stand to-day, was an interesting study to medical men. In brief, he said:

"A little black man came in. He took charge of me, and the others left. The little black man led me away. It seemed as if we rode a week in the cars. I have tried to remember what happened, but I can't. I do not remember going to Plainfield or seeing my grandmother or father-in-law. I do not remember going in a sleigh or having a revolver or killing Mr. Williams. I do not remember seeing my wife or a reporter or a detor when I came back.

"I have tried to recall all that, but I can't do it. I can't remember anything from the time the little black man took me in tow till I was in the way of one of Tyler's benders and walked to first. "He claims to be a helf-brother of mine. I first met him seven years ago at my father's home. My father introduced him as a friend. He told me then that he was my father's illegitly mate you may father." Wood told of other meetings with the mythical Wolf and how he dissuaded him from doing harm to his father.

The woman who meditates travelling this summer will be especially interested in the June Designer, which pictures the latest inventions which will add to her comfort. A well-written article by Myza Emmons tells how one may make a trip to Europe, spend a month on land and have a satisfying glimpse of six different countries for one hundred and fifty dollars, exclusive of ocean-steamer expenses. Those who want a breath of country air as reasonably as can be obtained will appreciate "The Summer Outing," which presents camp life of most novel character. There are, however, many women who just now are far more interested in the planning of their wedding-sowns than their travelling outfits, and for these are given these pages of bridal costumes, with the addition of outfits for the flowers; many women who just now are far more interested in the planning of their wedding-sowns than their travelling outfits, and for these are given these pages of bridal costumes, with the addition of outfits for the flowers; and the school-teacher in search of an appropriate entertainment for Commencement Day will gladly avail herself of "The Daisy Parky," than which are given fulliables, with charming border of their wedding-store to any other pages in the magazine the two on which are given fulliables, with charming border of Growsy bables being sung to sleep by the crickets. ***

Mr. Cronk is famous the country over for being the sole survivor of the War of 1812. He served in the 157th Regiment Volunteers; fought with distinction throughout the War of 1812 and at the battle of Sackett's Harbor was mentioned in general orders for bravery. Three years ago Congress raised his pension from $12 to $25 a month and last year the New York Aldermen voted to give a public funeral whenever he may die. Mrs. Sarah A. Rowley, his däughter, writes, that in spite of the fact that the grand old man is 105 years old, he is keen in mind and high was defeated by Pennsylvania—8 to 1—and since then has shown considerable weakness, being beaten several times, usually, however, by strong teams. Military obsequies in honor of Hiram Cronk, who at his death, two days ago, was the last survivor of the War of 1812, will be inaugurated by a street parade at 920 this morning.

An escort of United States regulars from Governor's Island, the Military Society of the Order of 1812, the Old Guard of the City of New York and other military and evire bodies will meet the remains at Grand Central Station, where they will arrive from up State. From there the cortege will march down Fifth avenue to Washington Square, passing beneath Washington arch; then, turning into Broadway, proceed to the City Hall.

The City Hall has been appropriately decorated, and the body will lie there in state for twenty-four hours after which it will be interred at Cypress Hills Cometery, Brooklya.
